The Times Explainers

The Times

6 x 12 min Documentary, Series Editor

"The Times" explainers are articles published by the newspaper that provide in-depth background information and context on complex news topics. They are designed to explain the "how" and "why" behind a story, going beyond the basic "who, what, when, and where" of a traditional news report to fill in gaps in a reader's understanding.

Supercollider/

BBC / CBC

60 min Documentary, Additional Editor

Green Door Pictures

A three-part documentary series that delves into the systemic racism Black artists have faced in the music industry, from its beginnings to the streaming era. It highlights trailblazing artists, the rise of Black-owned labels, and the historic injustices they endured, including unequal profits despite shaping popular music—from jazz and rock to soul and rap. The series offers a deep look at the triumphs and struggles of Black artists fighting for recognition, autonomy, and fair compensation in an industry stacked against them.
